

WOMEN'S HISTORY MONTH

WOMEN'S HISTORY MONTH FOR KIDS - INSPIRING GIRLS

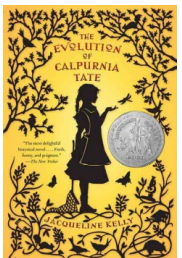

She Persisted: 13 American Women Who Changed the World by Chelsea Clinton
 Full of activists, feminists, and little kids ready to change the world, this book will inspire and gives the message to never give up and that persistence is power.

The Birchbark House by Louis Erdrich
 A young Ojibwe girl and her family spend summers on an island in a birchbark house. After returning to their winter cabin in 1848, Omakayas's community faces an invisible, life-changing intruder.

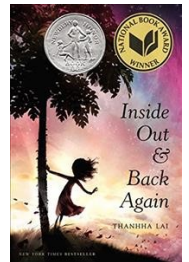

Land of the Cranes by Aida Salazar
 Fleeing Mexican cartels, Nine-year-old Betita and her family travels to the southwest US, the home of her ancestors called the land of cranes. But when her father is deported back to Mexico, Betita and her mother find themselves in a US internment camp struggling to keep hope.

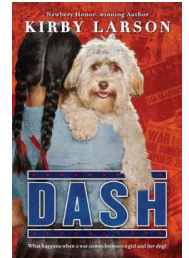

The Evolution of Calpurnia Tate by Jacqueline Kelly
 It's 1899 in a small Texas town where most girls focus on cooking and sewing. Calpurnia, however, is passionate about science and enlists the help of her eccentric grandfather to learn about nature—and herself.

Inside Out & Back Again by Thanhha Lai
 Ha's family escapes Vietnam in 1975 and makes a difficult journey to Alabama. Finally sponsored and settling down, the girl suffers bullies, struggles to understand American ways, and worries about her father missing in Vietnam.

Dash by Kirby Larson
 When the Japanese bomb Pearl Harbor, Mitsi's world is turned upside down. Her best friends shun her, her family is forced to move to an internment camp with other people of Japanese descent, and her beloved dog Dash must be left behind.

Starting from Seneca Falls by Karen Schwabach
 In 1848, Bridie, an 11-year-old run-away orphan, meets Rose, a free black girl, and is swept into Elizabeth Cady Stanton's plans for a women's rights convention.

One Crazy Summer by Rita Williams-Garcia
 It's 1968, and Delphine, 11, travels with her sisters from New York City to California to visit their estranged mother. Their adventures include participating in a Black Panther summer camp and meeting an interesting boy.

